Euroram Makes Mark on American Demolition

April 27, 2005 - The demolition and recycling sector has undergone a radical transformation during the last 25 years. Demolition machines with special equipment have replaced the grab and ram cranes and explosives. Special attention in the demolition-industry is not over yet. Evidence of this can be seen by way of the innovations in a great number of products and techniques.

Euroram in Geldrop, The Netherlands, is especially one of the manufacturers of equipment, such as breakers, pulverizers, demolition/sorting grabs and compactors, which set trends in safety, environment, efficiency and innovation.

The design of Euroram products makes use of the most advanced computer and software. In addition, the close interaction between Euroram, dealers all over the world, and contractors putting Euroram equipment to use, results in products of the highest quality, developed and tested in real-world situations.

During the development stages, Euroram anticipated the market need for highly efficient, silenced breakers and demolition recycling being performed on the work site. The hydraulic combination cutters/crushers, the pulverizers and the demolition/sorting grabs are optimized for this type of recycling.
